

Update: New cheque standards mandatory July 1 2007

Anyone who uses cheques to pay bills in Canada will have to replace their current pre-printed cheques with a new format by July 1 2007.

Any cheques written after July 1, 2007 will have to comply with the new standard as prescribed by the Canadian Payments Association.

These standards are to facilitate the Cheque Imaging Technology that that will replace the return of cancelled cheques to you with "An Image Statement" showing a copy of the cheques.

For the latest specifications of the new cheque format please visit www.cdnpay.ca

Your current cheque
forms
will become obsolete
on July 1, 2007!

EasyPay software will have an update available early in 2006 which can be downloaded from www.easypay.ca.

Viceroy Forms will also have an update available on floppy disk or CD for those ordering the new format cheques.

Easypay will be able to print on Either the old cheque format or the new cheque format
required for 2007.

Viceroy guarantees the compliance of its cheques with the current CPA specifications. Since there is a possibility that those specifications may still change we recommend delaying the ordering of cheques for use in 2007 for as long as possible, spring of 2007 would be prudent.
